Sweden, Norway and Denmark

Since 1986, Gothia Medical AB has become a leading distributor and marketer of medical devices, diagnostic and interventional health care products, implants, consumables and pharmaceuticals to the Scandinavian market. Our product specialists and product managers are divided into four sales divisions, each providing a high level of expertise within their respective field. We offer education and training on all our products, either at your premises, in our training centre, or with our suppliers. Logistics and distribution are managed from our Head Office and warehouse in Gothenburg.

Service excellence

Medical devices place high demands in terms of support, IT, training and service. Our service department is staffed by skilled and well-trained service technicians who are always ready to help with service and maintenance of your equipment. To complement this, we also have access to our suppliers' service organisations. Communication is key. Our service technicians remain in dialogue throughout service and support tasks to keep you - the customer - updated. Naturally, we also offer our advantageous service agreement in order to prevent problems and to give you maximum confidence in your day-to-day work.

Innovation and cutting edge expertise

Competition between companies within the medical industry is increasing. Not least, it is increasingly important that companies consistently supply high quality products and cutting edge clinical expertise in order to be able to achieve clinically desirable outcomes. At Gothia Medical this is a key element of our company philosophy. Over the years, we have worked hard to achieve a position where we can assert that:

"Gothia Medical provides, and has continually provided, the market with a host of invaluable and innovative products, which would not otherwise have been available to the Scandinavian health care market."

Quality assured in accordance with ISO 9001

Ongoing competency development of personnel and continuous optimisation of our management system, ISO 9001, qualifies us as a leading supplier of health care products. Together with you, we can identify and introduce new innovative options to take your clinical work forward.
